Workforce Summit: Customer Experience Workshop

A great customer experience starts with a great team.

But customer service looks different for every business. This workshop will explore how to hire the right people, train them around what your customers actually need, and lead by example to build a team that delivers.

We'll Cover:

- Building the right team - Hiring, training, and motivating employees
- Creating a great customer experience - Customer service training, real-world scenarios, and group problem solving
- Building a culture of excellence - How your vision, leadership, and supervisory approach shape your workplace
